

Mission-critical power contracts

Sikorsky secures a massive $376 million contract for the production of Black Hawk helicopters, enhancing military capabilities and solidifying its position as a leading helicopter manufacturer. ...

Under these contracts, AECOM will provide architectural design, civil design, and environmental planning services across the Pacific region in support of the U.S. Army's mission readiness ...

SCIO Technology is a leading developer of lightweight electrification technologies that provide ultra-reliable power for mission-critical military and defense applications. As a supplier partner, ...

Arlington, VA - Today, the Chief Digital and Artificial Intelligence Office (CDAO) announced contract awards to leading U.S. frontier AI companies to accelerate Department of Defense ...

Micron Technology, Inc., the only-U.S. based memory manufacturer, announced today that it is launching the industry's highest-density, radiation-tolerant single-layer cell (SLC) NAND ...

IBM (NYSE: IBM) has officially launched its most advanced Power server to date, IBM Power11, in India, marking a significant milestone in enterprise AI infrastructure. Purpose-built for the AI ...

Mercury Systems is a technology company that delivers mission-critical processing power to the edge, making advanced technologies profoundly more accessible for today's most challenging ...

Advent International ("Advent"), a leading global private equity investor, today announced it has signed a definitive agreement to acquire majority shareholding in LayerZero Power Systems ...

These engines serve as the core component of mission-critical backup power systems widely used in data centers, hospitals, and infrastructure hubs. This investment will create 60 new ...

Coined and championed by the team at Contracts 365, the 30-second contracting philosophy is simple but powerful: any essential contract management task--whether it's initiating a request, ...

Transaction supports long-term growth for both organizations MILWAUKEE, Wis - June 30, 2025: Rehlko, a global leader in energy resilience, announced today that it has reached a definitive ...

The global information resource for mission-critical communications. Click below for full access to our industry-leading content, along with our bulletin of featured and exclusive content delivered straight to your inbox every month.

Mission-critical power contracts

Founded in 2001 by industry pioneers Bhanoo and Galm, LayerZero provides differentiated, highly reliable power products essential for mission-critical data center applications. Increased cloud...

LayerZero Power Systems is a manufacturer of top-tier solid state power conversion and power distribution products to mission-critical industries. With over 350 associates at three USA ...

Mission-critical power contracts

Web: <https://ichipcorp.co.za>

